Statement in Support of Unintentional Delay

Sir:

The below signed attorney for the Applicant hereby states that the delay in filing the petition for revival of the application and in replying to the Notice of Missing Parts was entirely unintentional. The attorney only became aware of the abandonment when he reviewed the status of the application on the PAIR database. The attorney in reviewing the status of the application on August 12, 2004 for purposes of preparing the application for transferring the above-identified application to another law firm discovered that the application had been held abandoned. The attorney had not received a Notice of Abandonment in this application and was unaware that the response to the Notice of Missing Parts had not been filed. The response had been prepared, but was not filed due to clerical error. There are several other applications in which this had occurred of which the below signed attorney only now became aware and is now submitting petitions for revival. The below signed attorney had at that time period joined a new law firm. The attorney relied upon clerical assistance in mailing the response to the Notice of Missing Parts. The clerk merely inserted the response in the file without mailing it first. The below-signed attorney had believed that the response had been filed. This coupled with the failure to receive the Notice of Abandonment has resulted in the present situation.

Respectfully submitted,

Date: 8/15/04
